Meteor Insight: Product duration

Are investors trapped in structured products?

People investing in structured products should always be prepared to hold them for the full term. Although this commitment may seem rather daunting at first, you're not actually as wedded to the duration as you might think. Most structured product providers these days offer daily liquidity in normal market conditions, allowing investors to come out of a product during its term. In such circumstances the money returned could be higher or lower than originally invested and administration charges will apply.

Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance and should not be used to assess future returns or risks.
